

WILSON 256--HUGHES 255--STILL DOUBTFUL 20

AN OFFICIAL COUNT MAY BE NEEDED

MINNESOTA PROBABLY FOR HUGHES AND NORTH DAKOTA
TA WILSON'S LATE
RETURNS SHOW.

MARGIN IS NARROWER

New Hampshire, New Mexico and California Are Still Doubtful, Holding Up Twenty Electoral Votes.

As far as it is possible to classify the result of the national election in the face of the late returns and estimates this afternoon, the vote in the electoral college stands as follows:

WILSON: 256
HUGHES: 255
DOUBTFUL: 20.

This classification places Minnesota in the Hughes column, although the state is not conceded by the democrats. North Dakota is placed in the Wilson column, while California, New Mexico and New Hampshire remain in doubt.

New York, Nov. 9.—The democrats, assured of control of the next senate, may retain control of the house by holding ten seats in twenty-one congressional districts yet to be held from the division of members already elected is as follows:

Democrats, 210.
Republicans, 200.
Progressive, 2.
Independent, 1.
Socialist, 1.

New York, Nov. 9.—Charles B. Warren, republican national committeeman from Michigan, after a conference with Chairman Wilcox and other national committeemen, gave out his estimate of the election of republican leaders: "The election depends upon the count in California, Minnesota, North Dakota, New Mexico and New Hampshire. Oregon is safely for Hughes, as also is West Virginia. The probabilities are that the Minnesota vote will be cast for Hughes, but the official result will be in North Dakota, New Mexico, New Hampshire and California before results in those states will be known definitely.

New Hampshire Switches.
An eleventh hour development in the election situation came from New Hampshire today when Secretary of State Bean stated that with the New Hampshire returns complete, but only partly verified officially, Wilson led by 93 votes. Verifying of the New Hampshire returns still was in progress.

Noon Report.
If the results of the incomplete returns of Tuesday's balloting are accepted as final, the electoral vote would give Wilson 251 and Hughes 243.

The five doubtful states with their electoral votes are: California, 13; Minnesota, 12; New Mexico, 3; North Dakota, 5; New Hampshire, 4. The sudden switch of New Hampshire from a small Wilson plurality to a Hughes majority was the dramatic change in the situation this afternoon. It came in an announcement from the secretary of state that a partial official count of the disassembled returns in tabulation by town and ward clerks to that extent. The official count is still in progress.

In Minnesota and New Mexico the incomplete returns show Hughes to have the lead, while in California and North Dakota Wilson is leading. The returns from the latest western states have been received and expected to be available before a late hour today.

Four Pivotal States.
The election passed into the second day of uncertainty with President Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes both anxiously waiting accounts in four western states—the pivotal ones being California, with 13 electoral votes, and New Mexico with 3, New Hampshire with 4 and North Dakota with 5.

Although still so close that the result could not be regarded as assured, the overnight returns seemed to be placing West Virginia's eight votes in the Hughes column and giving the four votes of Idaho to Wilson. The returns from Washington to President Wilson were received before noon today.

How the Dope Stands.
After so disposing of these previous doubtful states from which the returns still are incomplete, the situation appeared to be as follows: President Wilson can win with either California or Minnesota, but in addition must get either North Dakota or New Mexico.

Mr. Hughes to win must have both California and Minnesota, or either one and in addition both North Dakota and New Mexico.

In California President Wilson had a lead of nearly 5,000, with one state of the state missing. Of the 570 missing, 143 are in the republican stronghold, and the others are in northern districts where the president vote has been heavy. Both party managers claim the state.

Close Race on in Minnesota.
In Minnesota the most dramatic race of all was being run hour by hour. During yesterday President Wilson's lead of 10,000 slowly melted down before the Hughes votes from the rural districts until it was wiped out. Then the Wilson votes began coming in again, only to be offset by a Hughes burst, and so the contest whirled all night with first one ahead and then the other. Early this morning, with about 500 precincts unreported, Hughes was ahead with less than 1,000.

Mr. Wilson had a lead of over 1,000 votes on the latest returns from North Dakota, with nearly 200 districts unreported. Both party leaders claimed the election.

With the counts half in from New Mexico, Mr. Hughes had a margin of less than 300 votes over President Wilson. Returns from far outlying districts are expected to come in slowly today. The latest returns from Washington today apparently carried that state into the democratic column. President Wilson had a lead of over 9,000 votes on the latest figures with about five hundred districts missing. Idaho was taken from the doubtful column early today and again given to President Wilson, who had a lead of over 13,000 votes on the latest returns. Less than 200 districts have not reported.

Mr. Hughes has a lead of over 3,500 votes on the returns early today from West Virginia, with only about 400 districts unreported.

Returns from the missing districts in the doubtful states were anxiously sought by the campaign manager at both democratic and republican headquarters today.

Both sides claim the election of their respective candidates, and it was evident that plans were being made to demand a recount in some to carry the contest into the courts.

Numerous conferences were held at both headquarters and there were confirmed reports that Chairman Wilcox, who is the republican national committeeman, after talking over the situation with the Hughes leaders, had advised national committeemen in certain states to urge the president to demand a recount.

Chairman McCormick did not make any charges of fraud, but said he was in a position to take any action that might be necessary. Quo warranto proceedings looking to a recount in New Hampshire are already under way.

Chairman Wilcox declared himself confident that Mr. Hughes had been elected. "We only ask what is fair," said Mr. Wilcox, "and we only want what we are entitled to. That we propose to have."

Wyoming Democratic.
Returns from all but a few scattered precincts indicate the election of Frank W. Mondell, republican, over John D. Clark, democrat, for congress, by a majority of 804, with 700 votes cast by absentee voters, which will make the count of the official canvass is made, but are not expected to overcome Mondell's lead. Kendrick's plurality over Clark for the United States senate is 2,388 and Wilson's plurality 5,617.

Cut Wilson's Lead.
Fargo, N. D., Nov. 9.—Errors in the tabulation of returns from a number of western precincts disclosed in a tabulation shown by Hughes today, cut down the Wilson lead by more than 300 votes. With 1,637 of the state's 1,859 precincts, the report showed Wilson 51,474, Hughes 50,772.

Of the remaining precincts to be heard from, seventy-eight lie in the extreme northwestern counties from which returns so far have been approximately two to one for Wilson. As the unreported districts are in the republican stronghold, the balance of the returns are likely to be very close.

New Jersey's Vote.
Trenton, N. J., Nov. 9.—With twelve counties complete and twenty-five small districts missing in the eight remaining counties, Hughes has a plurality of 54,744 over Wilson in the state. The vote for Hughes was 262,388, Wilson 207,612. Mercer county, complete, where the president voted, gave Hughes a plurality of 3,635 out of 15,001 votes cast.

Utah Strongly Wilson.
Salt Lake City, Nov. 9.—Incomplete returns from twenty-five out of twenty-eight counties in the state give Wilson 63,657; Hughes, 41,453. Complete returns are expected to make President Wilson's plurality in the state nearly 30,000.

Hughes Leading.
New Mexico, Nov. 9.—336 precincts of 638, early today showed Hughes still maintaining a slight lead. Hughes' plurality was 14,794; Wilson, 14,536.

Remote sections of the state, ballot boxes were closed at midnight and no additional returns were available today.

CALIFORNIA

DELEGATION

SCRATCHING OF ONE REPUBLICAN
ELECTOR MAY CHANGE VOTE.
IN ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

WILSON NOW LEADING

Has a Plurality of 3,509 in State as a Whole With 400 Precincts Still Unreported.

California.
5,510 precincts out of 5,917 give Hughes 448,194; Wilson 451,703. Wilson plurality 3,509.

5,505 precincts out of 5,917 give Hughes 447,712; Wilson 451,353. Wilson's plurality, 3,641.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Possibility of a split electoral vote is not at all remote in California and especially in the San Francisco district because of the scratching of A. J. Wallace, republican presidential elector by the radical "wets" because Wallace is one of the foremost "drys."

Should Hughes carry California, there is a possibility of Wilson taking one vote from the state to the electoral college.

In California presidential electors are elected in party groups, each having thirteen. When the ballots are canvassed the thirteen presidential electors receiving the highest totals are declared elected and are certified by the secretary of state. The voter may cast his ballot for any party group as a whole, or he may vote for electors all the parties, in which case he does not vote for more than thirteen.

Admits Wilson's Lead.
San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Chester H. Rowell, republican state central committee chairman, at 3:10 this morning said that estimated county totals for all of California showed Hughes running 200 behind Wilson. Rowell declined to concede California, but said the vote was Wilson 43,842, Hughes 43,721. Secretary of State Bean corrected his earlier statement, which he said the vote was complete. The two towns unreported cast a very small vote.

President's Plurality 3,826.
Out of 5,917 precincts in California, 5,559 give Hughes 446,645, Wilson 450,371. Wilson's plurality, 3,826. This leaves only 21 precincts to be heard from in Los Angeles, Hughes' strongest hope.

State of Washington.
Washington, Nov. 9.—With less than 500 precincts to be reported all widely scattered, Wilson was leading by a margin of 10,748 votes with every indication that complete returns would send his plurality above 10,000.

Governor Lister, democrat, apparently will defeat Harry McBride, republican, for governor, by more than 10,000.

Senator Poindexter, republican, who was re-elected, will have the largest plurality of any of the candidates on the ticket.

West Virginia.
Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 9.—One thousand three hundred and thirty-four precincts out of 1,380 give Hughes 115,509; Wilson 116,989.

Later Reports.
West Virginia, ov. 8.—1400 precincts out of 1713 give Hughes 119,638, Wilson 116,989.

Badly Beaten.
751 out of 1,713 West Virginia precincts on the suffrage amendment gave 31,100 for and 62,856 against.

Indiana.
Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Hughes' lead over Wilson was slightly reduced by the latest official returns received here shortly before noon today. With only 227 of the 1,314 precincts reported, the republican nominee had a margin of 8,487. The totals were Hughes, 319,993; Wilson, 211,506.

The republican candidate for governor and United States senator still hold good leads over their opponent.

WOMEN CAST LARGE
VOTE IN CHICAGO

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Nov. 9.—Chicago's vote on Tuesday was the largest cast in the history of the city. The total vote was 737,419, of which 272,835 were cast by women. The nearest approach to Tuesday's figure was at the 1912 election, when the total was 685,000, or 88% of the registered vote. At Tuesday election 91% of the city's registered vote was cast. Chicago republicans will control the legislature of the Illinois general assembly, as a result of Tuesday's election.

M'CORMICK WILL DEMAND A RECOUNT
IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Placing of State in Doubtful List is
One of Day's Biggest Surprises.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York City, Nov. 9.—Alton B. Parker and Morgan J. O'Brien called on Chairman Vance McCormick at three o'clock this afternoon. It is reported that they were there to consult on taking steps to insure a proper count of ballots in the doubtful states.

New York, Nov. 9.—Henry Morganthau, in charge of democratic headquarters, today in the absence of Chairman McCormick, said a recount would be demanded in New Hampshire. This he said would be done in spite of the figures received this morning showing Wilson had a lead. He added that the democratic committee in New Hampshire to demand a recount, already had gone forward, he said.

Certified Returns.
Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—Certified returns from 248 precincts out of 294 gave Hughes 37,072; Wilson, 36,793.

For the balance of the state the secretary of state has only preliminary returns based upon the certified returns combined with the press returns that the Wilson plurality was placed at 17.

Five hundred New Hampshire national guardsmen on duty at the Mexican border were unable to vote because of lack of legislative provision to this end.

Wilson Wins New Hampshire.
Concord, New Hampshire, Nov. 9.—With returns complete, but only partly verified officially, Wilson led New Hampshire this morning by 93 votes, according to Secretary of State Edwin Bean. Discovery of an error in the official report was a factor in reversing the lead which Hughes had.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—With two precincts missing, the count in New Hampshire at noon gave Wilson a lead of 121. This was based on 294 precincts out of 304 had been counted. Wilson 43,842, Hughes 43,721. Secretary of State Bean corrected his earlier statement, which he said the vote was complete. The two towns unreported cast a very small vote.

Minnesota.
At 3:30 p. m. returns from 2,825 precincts out of 3,024 gave Wilson 173,865 and Hughes 174,468. Hughes' majority 594.

California.
5,530 precincts out of 5,917 (verified number of precincts in state) gave Hughes 447,712 and Wilson 451,353, a majority for Wilson of 3,658.

North Dakota.—1713 precincts out of 1859 give Wilson 53,082 and Hughes 51,672.

Helena, Mont., 3:30 p. m.—The republican state central committee claims the election to congress of Miss Jeannette Rankin, and of the entire state ticket with the exception of governor and possibly lieutenant governor.

Fargo, North Dakota, Nov. 9.—Charges have been laid before District Attorney Hildreth by United States Marshals that ballot boxes in some of the northwestern part of the state have been tampered with; investigations will be started at once.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—Hughes was holding his slight lead over Wilson in Minnesota when returns from 2800 precincts out of 3024 had been counted. At 2 p. m. today, the count standing Wilson 173,213, Hughes 173,652.

Guards May Decide.
State officials and prominent politicians were agreed today that the vote of the Minnesota guardsmen at the Mexican border might decide the presidential contest in the state.

Returns from outlying precincts effected but little change in the standing of Wilson and Hughes, although the latter maintained a lead of less than five hundred. Unless the slightly more than 200 precincts unreported show a marked tendency to either of the candidates, the border vote is likely to hold the balance of power.

Secretary of State Schmah received a telegram this afternoon from the commissioners who took the border votes Tuesday, informing him that 2,136 votes had been cast.

The result of this vote will not be known for several days. It requires some time for the ballots to reach the secretary of state, who must forward them to the auditors of the counties in which the soldiers are posted.

Minnesota has provided that the canvassing shall not be closed until more than one week after election, unless the vote of all the guardsmen residing in the district have sooner been received and canvassed.

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—When presidential returns from Minnesota were received, Lynch maintained a slight lead over Wilson. Returns from 2,736 precincts out of 3,024 gave Wilson 171,477, and Hughes 172,308.

AMERICAN ELECTION
CLOSELY FOLLOWED IN FRENCH CAPITAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Nov. 9.—The American election is being followed with the deepest interest, the news having the place of honor in most morning papers. The commentators mindful of the dramatic surprise of yesterday, when the supposedly certain Hughes victory was turned into a possible defeat, are reluctant to commit themselves.

The majority of the comment is similar to that of Stephen Pichon in the Petit Journal, who expresses the belief that the victory of either candidate will have little effect on American policy as far as the big questions involving France are concerned. It is also pointed out that the present administration will remain in power in any event until March 4, and many things may happen between now and then.

The editor remarked that while a victory for Mr. Hughes might mean a more vigorous international policy, it would also mean a reaction of the French. The editor comments that this change while unimportant in time of war, might be awkward for French business interests on the return of peace.

Interest in London.
London, Nov. 9.—The presidential election in the United States is being intensely followed throughout London. The newspapers on Wednesday announced that Charles E. Hughes had been elected beyond doubt and this was taken for granted by the editors and the early evening newspapers showed that

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

"Panthea," the drama that created a furor in Europe and America when presented by Mme. Olga Petrova, has been chosen as the vehicle for Norma Talmadge's next picture.

In "Panthea" Miss Talmadge will be presented in a role different from anything she has heretofore attempted. The central character in this drama is that of a young Russian singer, who escapes to England under the surveillance of Russian secret police and an accusation charging her with being a nihilist. She marries an unknown but ambitious composer, and for his sake enters into a liaison with an elderly ruler who has great influence in musical circles. All great titles of the story comes when Panthea's lover refuses to live up to his agreement with her and she kills him. The story closes with Panthea's arrest and extradition to Russia, where she is sentenced to Siberia.

Tom Forman, the star, upon being presented with a week's vacation, took his guns and started on a hunting trip. He searched in every nook and corner in southern California for wild animals, but in vain. He then discarded his rifle, and gathered a number of fishing poles, and gathered in many of the funny tribe. But Fortune was against him. He was snowed in and had to throw them away before he could bring them to the studio for an album. Fish!

That the so-called silent drama will never attain its highest form of expression, all sorts of critics are eliminated from the screen, is the belief of Clara Kimball Young, whose most recent production, "The Common Law," set a record for the lowest number of titles ever used in a seven-reel picture. According to Miss Young the use of titles is rapidly dying out, and her greatest ambition is to produce a picture in which the only wording matter shown on the screen will be the cast of characters.

Edward Cecil, who gave such a splendid portrayal of the conceited English earl in "The Beast," is cast as a Mexican bandit in a new picture in the making on the western coast. The photoplay is a thrilling story laid on the Mexican border. Gretchen Hartman and Alan Hale have the leading roles. Director Richard Stanton, in charge of the shooting, has spent several weeks in and around El Paso.

BOY SCOUTS GIVE BENEFIT TOMORROW

Troop Four Will Have Show at Old Majestic to Raise Funds.

Troop 4 of the local Boy Scouts of America will give a benefit show at the old Majestic theatre on Friday to secure funds with which the scouts can complete their organization and fit up a club room.

Seven reels of pictures will be shown, and Robert S. Dailey, Janesville's favorite, has consented to sing. The Majestic has donated the use of their theatre as they have moved across the street into their new home. The principal features of the show will be "The Adventures of a Boy Scout" in five reels. This is a very interesting picture with a story that will appeal to all. In addition it gives an idea of what scouts are doing in other parts of the country. A Fatty Arbuckle comedy will also be shown. Mr. Dailey will sing some popular hits.

This benefit is given by Troop 4 of the city scouts. They are deserving of everybody's help. As an organization the scout movement is not military in thought, form or spirit, although it does instill in boys the military virtues such as honor, loyalty, obedience and patriotism.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there anything a person can do to keep from being jealous? It is the most miserable thing there is. I am terribly jealous of my husband, but he gives me no reason to be. For instance, there is a girl, living in the office attached to our home and he pays an awful lot of attention to her. He takes her home in the machine no matter if it is five o'clock or later. She either waits for him or he tells her to wait. She lives about a mile from here. It makes me angry for him to go away out of my way for her, because I ask him to do anything for me he also does for her. He is too busy, he says. She is worth, because she has not had office experience. We cannot afford it. I have to ask for a doll at a time and only when I need it. This is heart-sickening feeling. I have no appetite. I really do not think it is right for a married man to pay so much attention to another woman. This is not the first time it has happened. Shall I say something to him about it? I can't put my mind on my baby or work. I would like to pay him back in some way to make him appreciate me.

MRS. E.—Jealousy means death to love. As long as your husband feels your interest in another woman, there is no need of my telling you this, because you know as well as anyone what jealousy does, but you don't seem to conquer the feeling. You must get away from home more and mix with people. Fill your mind with new thoughts and your time with new interests. Read, work and exercise.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for about three months. He has a birthday soon. What would you advise me to give him? He has not given me any presents because I have not had a birthday since we have come together. I think it would be best not to give him anything. A book or linen handkerchief would be as good as anything you could choose, if you decide to give him something in spite of what I think.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A FELON

About six weeks ago, begins a delightful letter. I had a felon on my right index finger. I didn't recognize it soon enough to use the cold water treatment, so kept a drawing salve on for two weeks, suffering agonies of pain. Finally the pus broke, but the felon refused to heal, and I have tried everything my friends can suggest. I have lost a lot of weight and begin to think my blood must be in bad condition. Is there anything you can suggest to help heal it?

A felon appears to be an excuse for the perpetration of a crime. One's friends delight in the chance.

Six weeks. You poor—Well, what's the use of calling names. Let's talk it over soberly.

A felon is an infection. Infection means germs entering the tissues. The germs are pus-producing germs, and are present on the surface of the skin always. Through some slight scratch or puncture they enter the flesh and the only wonder is that this only happens occasionally, in spite of our dirty hands. In the flesh they either die, or multiply rapidly—if the individual's resistance happens to be diminished through unhygienic living. Multiplying they cause inflammation. This infection invades the deep tissue, gets under the peritoneal membrane of the bone. This membrane has but slight "give," hence the intense pain of a felon—much worse than a mere "oil" just as bad as a pumping toothache.

Treatment.—Incision. Not timid lancing, but free, deep incision, the very moment the pus has made an under an anesthetic, of course, if the patient is a human being in his right mind.

A felon that has over a week is unmistakable evidence of poor treatment. Anyone who prefers to nurse a felon may do so—it is a free country. But the immediate and permanent relief is the knife, and plenty of it.

Drawing salve? Friends? Why, you poor unfortunate man, such things are made in hell. Old Nic makes them to attract business.

Poultices? Old Women? Indian herbs? Fine for deformity, if that is your ambition.

Whoever chooses six weeks of suffering and disability with probable resulting deformity, in preference to five minutes of either and complete healing in a few days deserves the iron cross for fortitude. A felon is nothing to be proud of, nor on the other hand is it in your blood. It is just some pus-germs under the peritoneum and you'll find it mighty tedious sport trying to tease them out with salves and poultices.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Tumor, Night Sweats, Nervousness.
1. Please tell me what causes tumors and whether they can be cured without an operation. 2. How long would a very nervous person have to wait in order to be entirely cured?

Answer.—1. Further than to say that tumors are a mistake of growth, we do not know the cause. 2. Among the conditions of which night sweats are symptomatic are septic infection (pus accumulated anywhere in the body), tuberculosis, malaria, overeating, bad air, etc. From five minutes to fifty years, depending on the nature of the illness.

Danger of the Nasal Douche
I have been in the habit of using an antiseptic alkaline solution with a nasal douche tube. Lately my hearing is affected. Is the douche all right for this purpose?

Answer.—Never. It is very likely to destroy the solution into the Eustachian tube and injure the hearing. Never douche or snuff fluid in the nostrils. Use either an atomizer or the ordinary fountain syringe.

Miss Volmar looked in the direction of her gaze and there, with a group of ladies and gentlemen, laughing and talking with great animation. (To be continued.)

Household Hints

DO YOU KNOW QUINCES?

This is the season when the small quince tree and its acid fruit makes its usual appeal to the public. While it is not generally known, the juice of the quince possesses a strange power over the most violent cases of hiccoughs.

When all other remedies have failed, a tablespoonful of the juice of quinces has relieved the spasmodic inspirations which produce the cough. Boil the juice with a little sugar, seal while hot and it will keep a year at least.

DELICIOUS QUINCE CHIPS.—Prepare quinces as for preserves, chop with vegetable cutter, steam three minutes in water enough to cover, add cup of sugar to cup of fruit; boil until the juice begins to thicken. Seal in glasses or jars.

TO DRY PARSLEY.—Remove leaves from parsley and discard all stems. Place parsley on a cloth or on a hardboard and gather between thumb and fingers, pressing compactly. With a sharp vegetable knife cut through and throw until all is cut. Place in the sun to dry.

CUSTARD PEACH PIE.—Beat one egg with one-half cup of sugar and add one pint of sweet milk. Have pie tin lined with pastry; place in pan three peaches, peeled and cut in halves, making six pieces in all. Pour custard in on peaches and bake until it sets.

Put a spoon of meringue in each half and put back in oven until delicately brown. This is an original recipe and has never before appeared in print.

REMOVING OLD PAINT.—Old paint may be quickly and easily removed from any surface by scrubbing with the following mixture: Dissolve a quart of baking soda in a gallon of water and add a quart of quicklime. Apply to the surface with a brush and a few minutes later the old paint may be washed off in warm water. The wood should then be washed in vinegar before new paint is applied to remove all the alkali.

SOME NEW THINGS.—A Greek inventor has produced a machine which automatically cleans and packs more than 150 cases of currants an hour without contact of human hand or foot.

Corn and tassels are favored for girls. Sometimes the cord is in reality a fold of silk and the tassels are weighted balls of the same material.

The inventor of a fly trap in the form of a miniature house believes the insects are naturally attracted to such structures.

For women who embroider or knit a bracelet has been invented, to which is swiveled a holder for a ball of silk or yarn.

Small rubber covered wheels have been invented to be clamped to the rockers of a rocking chair to convert it into a rolling chair.

PUMPKIN PIE.—Line a deep pie plate with pastry, pour in pumpkin mixture, bake until crust is brown, set away to cool. Whip cream to a stiff froth, add sugar and spread over pie. For the pumpkin mixture: Peel pumpkin, cut up, stew with water. Let cool. Take one quart of pumpkin, one quart of hot milk, one and one-half cups of sugar, four eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of cinnamon. The amount makes two pies.

TO ROAST A TURKEY.—Salt the bird six to twenty-four hours before cooking. Make a stuffing of equal parts of biscuit, the stale parts of the bread in a mill, light bread and corn pole; grind all and a small piece of butter, black pepper, salt, a small amount of pulverized sage, one cup of well-cooked seedless raisins; pour over a small amount of hot water—not enough to soften, but thick enough to work into the stuffing the turkey, put in the roasting pan and put in one pint of cold water; allow to simmer on top of range for one or two hours, basting every fifteen minutes. Put in oven and cover closely. Basting constantly assures a sweet, juicy result.

ROAST GOOSE.—In case turkey is too expensive, goose may be substituted. To prepare the goose, pick, singe and clean well. Make the stuffing with four small onions and some sage, chopped very fine. Then add stale bread crumbs and a coffee cup of mashed potatoes, pepper and salt, a bit of butter as big as a walnut, the yolk of an egg or two; mix these well together and stuff the goose; do not fill it entirely. Serve with apple sauce.

WEDDING REVEALS WHYFORE OF SENORA CARRANZA'S VISIT.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Mexico City, Nov. 8.—Senora Carranza, wife of the late President Carranza, is expected to arrive here today, and that say folks who know, tells the story of the visit of Senora Carranza to the United States two years ago. She came to buy the trousseau.

When she visited in San Antonio she was with Senora Alvaro Obregon, wife of Carranza's war minister. The pair were carefree and moved about in perfect ease. Senora Carranza found the movie shows a charm but spent most of her time buying, buying, buying.

She confessed too, that it wasn't all for her niece for Senora Carranza likes "pretties" and likes her daughters to have them. Senora Carranza's visit to the United States was the easier for the spread of many rumors saying the first chief was to flee Mexico. She denied them all flatly.

HIT IT AGAIN.

Did you ever play the game called "teether ball"? It is a sort of second round, twice removed, from tennis. There is a tennis ball tethered to a piece of cord to a tall pole. The two contestants stand on opposite sides of the pole and hit the ball with tennis rackets. The object is to wind the cord up, each of course trying to wind it up his way.

It is an excellent game, a game which gives as much exercise as tennis and is financially within the reach of everyone.

"But I am not an agent for 'teether ball'." I simply want to make you acquainted with the little drama which I witnessed the other day.

The Champion Was the Shortest. Half a dozen young people were playing this game. As you can readily see, it is a sport in which height and strength are great advantages. And yet, the champion of the group was the shortest of the lot—a little red-haired lad of about fifteen, slight and rather short even for his age.

Two of the other contestants were six inches taller than he. And one was unquestionably stronger. Why then should he win?

I thought perhaps he had been at it longer than the rest, but found he had not. So I watched him a few minutes—and then I knew.

He Never Reverted On His Laurels. The other would give a good hit and then stand back and watch the ball. He would give a good hit and then get into place to hit again. I am going to watch that boy when he grows up. I feel sure that the habit of hitting again is going to stand him in good stead.

The Man Who Got a Raise. The trouble with a great many of my salesmen," a business man once said to me, "is that whenever they make a big killing they have to sit back and admire themselves for a while. But I've got one man who looks on every big sale he makes as a record to be broken next trip. I couldn't raise my other men this year, but you can bet I raised him."

Laurels are bad things to rest on. There is a perfume about them that has much the same effect as lotus eating. The boys' club asked me for a motto the other day. I couldn't think of one just then, but now I suggest "Hit it again."

HAS PLAN TO LOWER THE COST OF LIVING

Miss Florence King.

Miss Florence King of Chicago, president of the Woman's Association of Commerce, is preparing an appeal to woman's organizations throughout the country to aid in a fight to require statements of the grade of wheat used in each brand of flour.

This system, she declared, would mean a saving of 15 per cent to buyers of flour by forcing the millers to use lower grades of wheat in lower priced flour and not in the higher grades of flour.

WOMEN WILL OPEN SUFFRAGE SCHOOLS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) New York, Nov. 8.—Preliminary to the nation-wide drive for woman suffrage which the National American Woman Suffrage Association will launch for 1917, it is announced that every non-suffrage state in the Union will have the expert training of suffrage speakers and campaigners. The first of these schools will be opened in Baltimore next Monday for one-week session of lectures and demonstration in public speaking, suffrage history and argument, organization, legislative work, and publicity. Suffragists from all over the country are already enrolled for this "short course" which will equip them with the most effective weapons known to suffrage campaigners.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, political leader of the suffrage ranks, will head the list of instructors and will address the classes on political organization, Federal and legislative work. Mrs. H. W. Wilson of New York will conduct the courses in suffrage history and argument, Mrs. Arthur Livermore of New York will give instruction in public speaking, and Mrs. Rose Geyer of Iowa will lecture on press and publicity work. The suffrage "teachers" will demonstrate model meetings, which will show all the accompanying features of such gatherings, including, in January similar schools will open in all the other non-suffrage states.

Living Cowards and Dead Heroes.
A correspondent in the New York Tribune quoted a friend of his as saying that he would rather be a living coward than a dead hero. For ourselves, we think that the man who would rather be a living coward than a dead hero is dead already and does not know it. He is a peripatetic corpse and the sooner he is buried the better for the world. We do not believe that he represents the spirit of America.—Outlook.

The QUARTERBREED

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

(Copyright by Browne & Howell Co.)

Hardy went in between Vandervyn and Dupont. He avoided the girl's proud gaze by looking about at the dining room. It was as stifled as the parlor and no less tasteful. The small oval table was spread with a cloth of snowy French damask. The silver was real antique ware. The smiling hostess bowed Hardy to the seat of honor.

"This here layout is Marie's," explained Dupont. "She was bound to turn herself loose to even up on what happened at the river yesterday. Needn't figure on us dishing up the same rations regular."

"I have yet to learn whether I am to have the pleasure of boarding with Miss Dupont," remarked Hardy.

"You sure have, if you're ready to shell out for it. Grub comes high here."

"And Marie is a real chef," added Vandervyn.

Hardy waited until the Indian boy had served the soup. At last he succeeded in fixing the cool gaze of his hostess. "Please do not consider that hospitality requires you to do me the favor, Miss Dupont," he said. "I do not wish to intrude, highly as I should appreciate—"

The deference of his manner soothed the girl's wounded pride. She smiled, and combined a friendly response with a side thrust at her father:

"Indeed, we shall be delighted to have you Captain Hardy—I, because of your company, and Fere because of the cash."

"By Gar, he won't get no better feed in no hotel," vowed Dupont.

"I can foresee that," agreed Hardy.

His faith was justified by each successive course. Though all the vegetables had come out of cans, they were prepared with consummate skill. The trout were fresh from the creek; the grouse and beef had been hung exactly the right length of time in the dugout icehouse; the champagne was frappe.

Between the girl's vivid beauty, the good cheer, and the cordiality of his companions, his usually half-sad and wholly severe expression had given place to genial animation.

Upon the return of the hostess from one of her visits to the kitchen he spoke to her in a tone that drew a stare of open resentment from Vandervyn: "You are wonderful, Miss Dupont, wonderful! One day in an Indian attack, followed by a fifty-mile drive; the next, fifty miles back, and such a dinner as this!"

"First the great-granddaughter of Sitting Bull, then la bonne cuisiniere Francaise," flashed back the girl. "Where is the wonder? Two streaks of heredity, plus childhood in the saddle and a course in domestic science."

"Yet you must be fatigued," "When I have done what I set out to do, then I permit myself to consider whether I need rest. There was a time when my red ancestors had no horses. They ran down their game afoot."

Mr. Vandervyn. Good evening, Captain Hardy.

Vandervyn nodded, and followed Dupont with a nonchalant bearing that drew attention from the slight uncertainty of his step. Hardy lingered for a word of appreciation: "This has been a most enjoyable evening, Miss Dupont."

She chose to disregard the sincerity and warmth behind the formal phrase. "You are very kind, Captain Hardy. But pray do not overestimate. Where all else is off-color, three-quarters white seems dazzling."

"Believe me, it is not a question of contrast or comparison," he protested. "Not even in New York or Washington."

"You flatter me. And now, as I am tired—"

He bowed and left her, concealing the sting of her polite rebuff under his grave smile. The Indian boy, who was standing at the parlor door, closed it behind the guest at a sign from Marie.

Dupont took the drink that he had poured out for himself and undertook the perilous operation of opening the champagne. He fumbled the bottle and would have dropped it had not Vandervyn jumped up and taken it from him. Thrust aside by the younger man, he lurched and sat down in a chair near Hardy.

"Shelppity—ben in ice," he explained with solemn emphasis. He threw back his head and burst into an uproarious laugh. "Shelppity—like that gobs-mouche Redbear. Him trying to smooth me down—alf that'd give him a show with M'rie! An' me the squares trader in the U. S.!

Why, last time I got goods on credit, they shent me a skeeshule to lishit my libilities, 'n' I jash took my pen in han' 'n' wrote 'cross that shere lish, 'I don't owe no man nashing.' He again drew back his head and let out a hoarse laugh.

"For grammar, but rich rhetoric, Jake," remarked Vandervyn as he filled the champagne glasses. "You told me they gave you the credit you asked for."

"I got the goods," said Dupont, pulling himself together and sobering his tongue with an effort. "Nothing like being on the square. That's what makes me sore at them there chiefs, Cap. Won't let me help out the bucks and squaws what's sching for work—good pay in trade goods, and us taking all risks on the ore smelting out."

"N. G. What'll the tribe do after they get their last issue next spring? That's what I'd like to know."

"Yes, captain," said Vandervyn. "Next spring will come the last issue of goods that is provided for in the government treaty with this tribe. They will be in a bad fix if something is not done to get them used to white ways."

"How about a new treaty, to partition the reservation and give land in severalty to each head of a family?" suggested Hardy.

"That would take a long time to bring about, and meantime the young bucks should be taught to work. Why wouldn't it be a good idea for us to take charge of the mine—pay all who want to work at fair wages, and take the risk of getting our money back out of the ore shipments?"

As Vandervyn made the suggestion, he smiled ingeniously, and his handsomeness, flushed face shone with philanthropic enthusiasm. Hardy's face lighted up with a responsive glow. He smiled into the boyish blue eyes.

"The proposal does you credit," he responded. "You may count on me to contribute my share."

"You will, will you, Cap?" exclaimed Dupont. He reached out his thick-fingered hand. "You're in, hey? Put it there, old pard! Just you make them damn kids savvy they've got to hustle for what we give 'em, like No-gone done, and we'll round up fifty thousand apiece before snow flies."

"Certainly not."

"Your idea would be to give all the profits to the tribe, even if we had bought the ore and taken the risk of its turning out worthless?"

"I am the acting agent, not a trader," "Non-chien!" muttered Dupont. "That ain't no way to treat a white man, Cap. Won't you let 'em trade me no more ore?"

"I shall investigate before I decide," said Hardy, and he rose to leave. "Good evening, Good evening, Mr. Vandervyn."

He went out. Dupont gaped after him, and granted incredulously: "Fifty thousand—made it fifty thousand, and he didn't jump at it?"

"Told you so," snapped Vandervyn. "But we'll fix him yet—two more cards up our sleeve. If one fails to take the trick, we'll play the other. We're not going to be bluffed out at this stage of the game."

Dupont caught at the whisky bottle with a shaking hand. "No, by Gar," he protested. "We don't play that other card, Mr. Van. I quit first."

"Oh, well," replied Vandervyn. "If you're going to throw down, I shall not try to play it alone. But you're in on the next play."

Dupont granted, and poured himself a full glass of whisky.

CHAPTER V.

By Play.

Sunrise found Vandervyn riding down the valley on his nimble-footed pinto. He left the road and cantered across into the bend where Redbear had pointed out his new house to Hardy. When Vandervyn rode up, Redbear was shoveling clay upon the uncovered brush that at one corner of the roof. The halfbreed did not stop work until his visitor drew rein almost within arm's reach. Vandervyn met his civil greeting with a cynical smile.

"So you've builded you a home, Charlie. How's your sister Winna? That's the name, isn't it?"

"No, we say it O-ee-nah. The school people made her get up at four. I told her to sleep all day, if she liked."

"Come up the creek. I want to tell you something," replied Vandervyn. When they had gone beyond earshot of the cabin, he stopped his pony and faced the uneasy halfbreed with a look of sympathetic concern. "Charlie, it's all up."

Redbear's face turned a mottled gray. "All—all up?" he gasped.

"Amounts to the same thing," answered Vandervyn. "We sounded him last night. He won't sit in to the game—the board-bread fool! No chance to deal with him, and you know what that means. Next thing, he'll have it all out of the chiefs—the mine—everything."

"No, no, Mr. Van! He can't find out. They don't know about what you and me—Nobody saw us nobody. If there'd been a fresh track anywhere inside a quarter-mile, I couldn't have missed it."

Vandervyn shrugged. "I'm not so sure of that. You are not a full-blood tracker. But what if that is covered? It's bad enough. As soon as he finds out about the mine, he will kick the whole bunch of us off the reservation. That's the kind of fool he is."

"He can't put me off. I'm a member of the tribe."

"It's Up to Us to Bluff Him or Throw Down."

Another island—you can say, to another reservation.

"But if that is a lie—"

"It isn't. It's exactly what happened. The Moro head chief was kept in jail until he was hung. Be sure to tell that to old Thunderbolt. If it falls to warm him—"

"Hoganny-hunk!" gasped Redbear. "They once put him in jail for a week. If I tell him, it will make him fighting mad."

"That's what we want. I'll post you to interpret what he says, in a way that will get Hardy's goat. No man has nerve to stand up to a whole tribe. He will have to quit. Then the job comes to me. You know what that means."

"You promised me a full share."

Anne had been frequently reprimanded by the heads of her family for her too great eagerness to begin her dinner before grace had been said. It came, however, as a shock to all present when her eldest brother, on whom devolved the duty of asking a blessing, took upon himself to administer a gentle reproof, as follows:

"For what we are about to receive, and for what Anne has already eaten, make us truly thankful."

The aged admiral was well known for his powers of exaggeration. At supper one night he was describing a thrilling voyage.

"While cruising in the Mediterranean," he said, "we passed an island which was red with lobsters."

"But," said one of the politely incredulous guests, "lobsters are not red until boiled."

"Of course not," said the undaunted admiral, "but this was a volcanic island with boiling springs!"

"For the last time?" Beats replied cheerfully. "I'm glad to hear you say that, old man. You know, I was getting awfully tired of hearing you ask that foolish question!"

HARD WORK STARTS FOR GOPHER GAME; BRACE BADGER LINE

Wisconsin Opens Strenuous Practice to Fit Team for Battle With Minnesota, Nov. 25.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—Dr. Withington and his staff of coaches settled to real work for the Minnesota game this afternoon by dealing out a number of new plays for the Gophers. By witnessing the Illinois-Minnesota game last Saturday, Coach Withington has secured plenty of valuable information on both the teams and during the next two weeks he will spend his time giving this information to his men and will deal especially with the work of Minnesota so they will be able to stop the Gophers when they meet on November 18.

The defeat by Ohio State, although it has wrecked the championship hopes of the Badgers, seems to have worked a decided change in the attitude of the players. The defeat seems to have inspired the men with the fact that they will never played before in order to win from Minnesota or Illinois. The weak points displayed by the team when under fire by the opposing team are being remedied and attention is being given to the play of the ends and the halfbacks on end runs by the opposing backs. Ohio State made most all of their gains around the extremities of the line so Dr. Withington is bending all his efforts to strengthening this part of the defense. With two weeks in which to prepare for the game, Dr. Withington expects to have the team in the best of shape. All the members of the squad at present are in the best of condition, and having accidents the Badgers should enter the game with their strongest eleven. Edler and Simpson have fully recovered, as has Captain Meyers.

The fact that Illinois was victorious over the Gophers has not made Wisconsin underestimate the ability of Minnesota, but has only made them realize the necessity of hard work. The general opinion of coaches at Wisconsin is that Illinois got all the breaks of the game and so completely surprised the northerners that they have not yet recovered from the defeat. There is no question but that Minnesota will be ready for Wisconsin and will attempt to gain revenge for the defeat at the hands of Illinois. Many critics claim that Minnesota is a three man team and Illinois a one man team, but the game Saturday proved that this is not true, so Wisconsin will have to do more than watch the game of the Gophers to prevent the Gophers to score by the forward pass route.

"Cub" Buck has a big job on his hands to prepare the Badger line to withstand the drive of Minnesota's forewall. The Gophers have the strongest line in the conference and most of their gains have been made through the guards and tackles. Wisconsin's line, on the other hand, is the weak part of the defense. Dr. Withington will spend most of his time with Buck in strengthening the guards and tackles. The logical men to hold these places are Koch and Pitzer tackle with Hancock and Gunderson guards. Gray may also be given a chance at tackle, as will Graper, Carpenter and Kieckhefer are eligible for guards.

PHEASANT RAISING PROVES A SUCCESS; NEED AN ENCLOSURE

Rock County Game Protective Association Plans to Fence Two Acre Orchard for Game Birds' Cage.

Efforts of the Rock County Game Protective association to stock a game preserve with ring neck pheasants, has met with gratifying success and several hundred birds are now roaming the woods on the Caldwell farm north of this city. It is estimated that sixty or seventy pheasants will be available for breeding next season and to insure the further success of the venture, the game association proposes to provide a cage comprising a two-acre orchard, which must be suitably fenced. The matter will be taken up at a meeting of the association at eight o'clock next Monday evening at the city hall.

A statement prepared by F. E. Green, president, and I. F. Wortendyke, secretary of the association, describes in detail what has been done during the year. It is as follows:
Two or three years ago fifteen pheasants were secured by the Rock County Game Protective association and turned loose on the Caldwell farm. To protect them several fences were posted as "Game Reserves," a total of about 2,000 acres being covered. From time to time various conveyances of pheasants are seen so that it is certain there has been considerable increase.

This spring the association purchased forty birds costing $160. An enclosure 35x140 was built of wire which cost about $25. Sixteen bantams were purchased to hatch the pheasant eggs. These cost $12. The chicks first hatched practically all died for want of suitable shelter. The next hatching shelter was provided in the form of coops at a cost of about $22, and thirty or forty chicks came through all right. The first enclosure is too small to keep the birds in during the winter and unless some provision is made to enclose a much larger space, it will be necessary to let the birds go.

In addition to the chicks raised in captivity, there are quite a few wild birds that are attracted by tame ones, so it is easily possible to increase the number of birds available for sale.

The birds are raised in the city hall Monday evening, Nov. 13th, at 9 o'clock. "If you are interested in seeing this work carried on, be present at the meeting for unless some way can be devised to get a suitable enclosure at once, it will mean letting our birds go."

MORRIS MILLER
Charley Herzog has found a way to speed that check for $5,000 which he received when he signed in the middle of last season. The Canteloupe King has been planning the best way to invest the 5,000 ever since and now he has decided how to do it. A fine piece of farm and hill territory adjoining his canteloupe patch is on the market and Charley will buy it. Besides raising more melons, he intends to start a kennel of blooded dogs and to make a special effort toward reviving the famous breed of "Chesapeake Bay hounds," almost extinct today, but raised as among the finest hunting.

Jimmy Howard, the man who discovered Harry Gattie, is out with an ensemble of "roar" about middleweight champion Al McCoy. Gattie is the best middleweight about, and McCoy has been asked to meet him on several occasions. According to Howard, McCoy insists that Gattie wear eight ounce gloves while he is to wear the regulation five ounce. If Howard's story is true, the "champion" is bound to come in for a lot of bombing by the fans. In asking for a piece of eight ounce pads McCoy evidently thinks that he has reaped an advantage. It is amazing what a difference the heavier gloves will make after a man begins to get arm weary.

Mike McNulty, for Johnny Ertle, says that Kid Williams is taking a short cut from the truth when he informs the public that Ertle will not give him a chance to regain his title, the one supposed to have been lost through a foul at St. Paul. Says Mike, "Williams has been pretending that Ertle wanted a match with Ertle on precisely the same terms as to weight that existed in their previous bout. Ertle will give him a cage comprising a two-acre orchard, which must be suitably fenced. The matter will be taken up at a meeting of the association at eight o'clock next Monday evening at the city hall."

Charles Comiskey has fared very well, thank you, training his White Sox against minor league ball teams and he announced in response to an inquiry that he had no intention of coupling up with any National league club for a barnstorming trip as part of his training stunt. Comiskey might have added that after the showing of the old leaguers in the fall series he couldn't see where they could furnish any more opposition than the average minor league team. But Comiskey likes Charley Weckman too well to hurt his feelings that way.

PREPAREDNESS CHINK WANTED BY COUNTRYMEN AS CHINA'S VICE-PRESIDENT.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Peking, Nov. 9.—General Chang Hsun, the powerful leader who called the military conference at Hsuehchow for the purpose of devising means for preventing the parliament from depriving the military of its power, is now prominently mentioned as a candidate for the vice-presidency. President Li Yuan-bung is reported to be favorable to the election of General Chang Hsun to the vice-presidency by the parliament. Many newspapers are antagonistic to the elevation of General Chang Hsun, and say that his military conference at Hsuehchow was nothing but a seditious movement and its promoters should be punished. General Chang Hsun would probably not release his position as military governor of Anhui province, were he elected vice-president, as the vice-presidency is regarded as a sinecure which carries with it high honors but little work. Furthermore, the relinquishment of military power would probably mean the political downfall of General Chang Hsun, who has been a dominant figure in China for many years.

OMAR OMAR OMAR OMAR

You can't write Omar omar without writing aroma. You can't smoke Omar without smoking aroma.

Never before has there been so individual a blend of rich Turkish leaves with ripe accentuating leaves.

Never before have you found such varied aroma-tones blended into one happy cigarette.

Omar—the perfect Turkish blend. Even the words blend.
